We believe that those relevant factors surely help architects create a better architecture for Cambodia. In the department of Humanities, the Program of Khmer Literature teaches students to analyze, explain and compare all aspects of Khmer language and literature. Students gain an expert knowledge of Khmer language and literature, which forms the basis of Khmer culture and identity. As Cambodia becomes increasingly involved in exchanges with foreign countries, it is important that Cambodians understand their own culture, and use it as a starting point for building relationships with others. During the four years of their degree, students develop advanced skills for social research, preparing them for a wide range of careers including teaching, journalism, and government work in areas such as information, tourism and culture, as well as work in non-government organizations (NGOs). In the department of Education, the Program of the Educational Science is ambitious for education are captured in Sustainable Development Goal 4 of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development which aims to "ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all". In a globalized and multicultural economy and society, young people's horizons are not broad enough to operate accordingly. Challenges, such as the rapid technological advancements and new patterns of work have created several demands on education, making the inculcation of 21st century skills a necessity.
